Looking for a good electrician?

Avoid the cowboys and make sure you choose the right electrician.

Helping you find the right electrician?

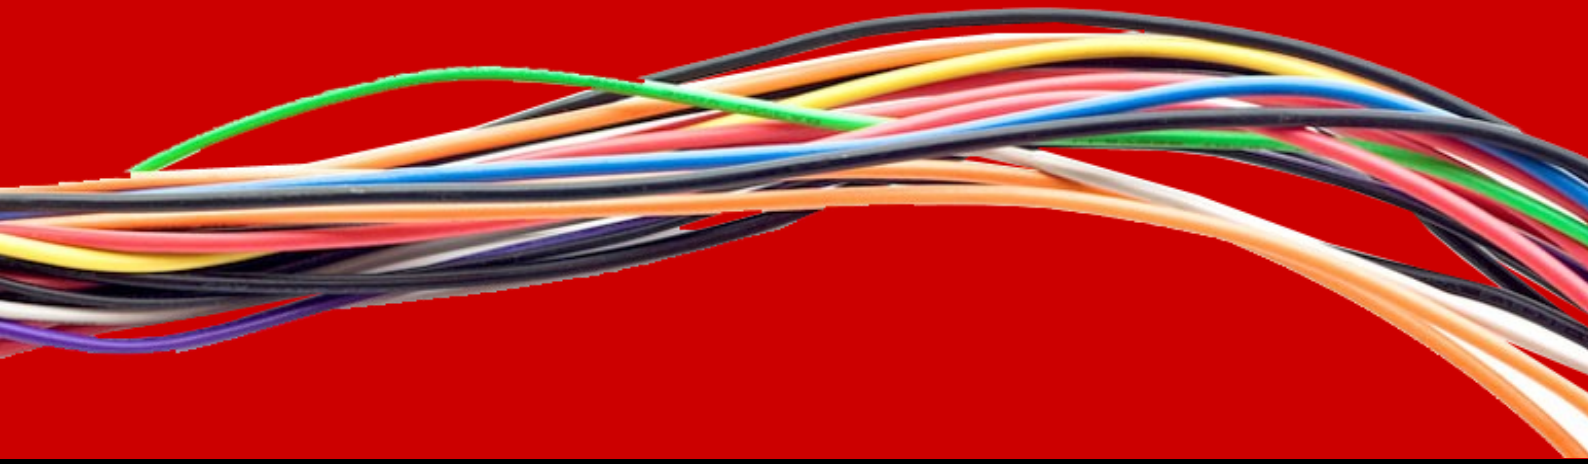

Be confident when choosing the right electrician for your job. Follow the three steps below to be sure you know who you are trusting to carry out your work.

Here are 3 things you need to look for when searching for an electrician.

Are they Registered, Qualified & Experienced?

Do they have a Good Reputation?

Can they give you a Competitive and honest quote?

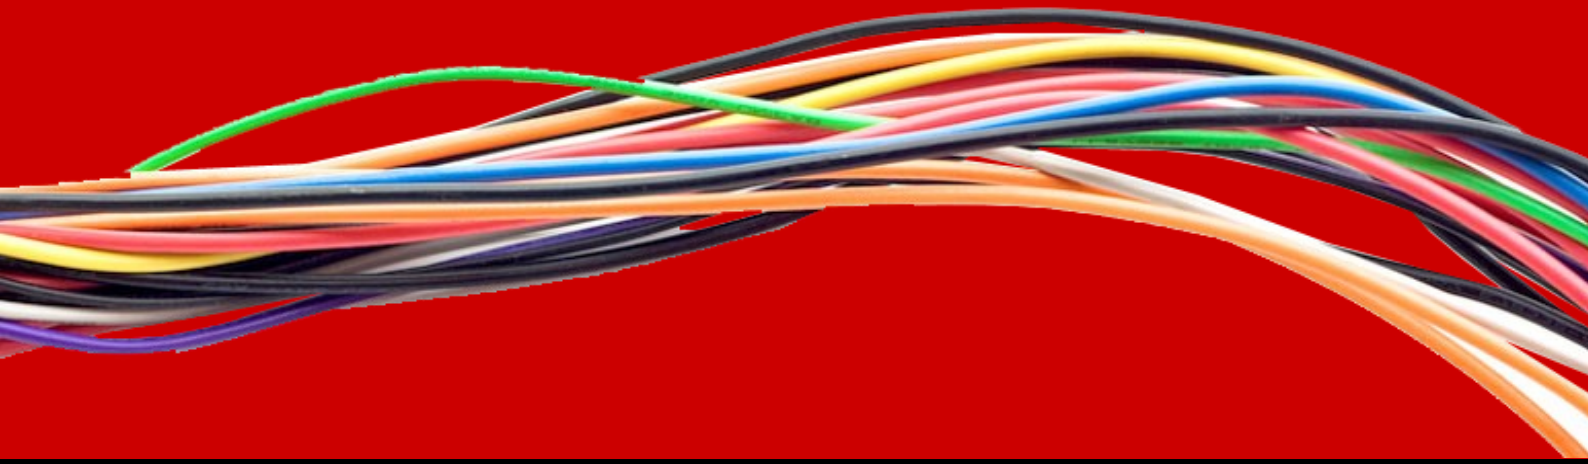

1. Registered, Qualified & Experienced

Always check to see if the company you choose are registered with an approved government scheme. Choosing a registered electrician means you can feel safer knowing you are using a qualified tradesperson and you get extra protection if something does go wrong. You can contact the scheme directly by phone or online to ensure the company is registered.

Ryan Askew Electrical Services Ltd are Part P NAPIT Registered and also hold a number of qualifications, certificates and trademark standards.

Don't just take our word for it, phone 0345 543 0330 or visit NAPIT.org.uk to check our credentials.

2. Good Reputation

Reliable & trustworthy

Good companies can always provide references of happy customers and are proud to share it.

We have testimonials and a portfolio on our website, we also have a Facebook page where customers can leave comments and feedback and potential customers can see and read for themselves. We are proud of our high standards and are happy to share this with you.

ARE SAYING

3. Competitive and honest quotes.

Confident Pricing

A company should be able to give you a detailed quote of the works to be carried out. You can always get a few quotes and discuss which is best for you. Try to avoid quotes with a lot of TBC's and estimates to avoid your project financially spiralling out of control. A good electrician will have a good idea of exactly what is needed so there will be less surprise when carrying out a job.

Our electricians are not salesmen we are just honest and experienced and are confident to provide you with a free competitive quote, we can answer most electrical questions or concerns that you have straight away and won't rush you to say yes or sign anything until you are happy to go ahead.
